IMPORTANT NOTES

THE CLERGY

THE Clergy are requested to notify "The Mailing Department, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York," of changes in their post-office addresses in order that the Board's publications may be correctly mailed to them.

SUBSCRIBERS

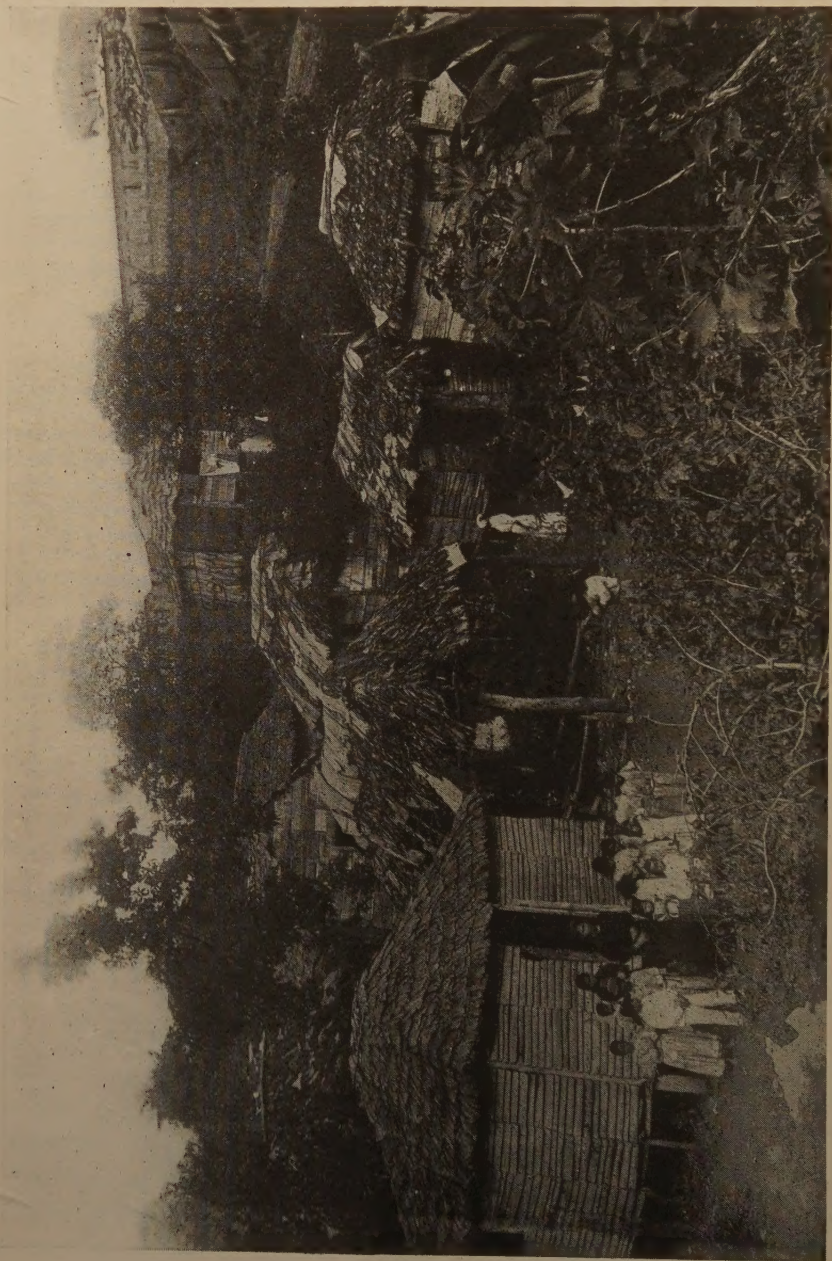

SUBSCRIBERS will observe that the address label indicates the time to which subscrip-tions are paid. Changes are made in the labels on the 15th of each month. If sub-scriptions are received later than the 15th, the change in the label will appear a month later.

CONCERNING WILLS

IT is earnestly requested that inquiries be made concerning Wills admitted to probate whether they contain bequests to this Society, and that information of all such be-quests be communicated to the Treasurer without delay. In making bequests for missions it is of great importance to give the exact title of the Society, thus:

I give, devise, and bequeath to The Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, for the use of the Society.....

If it is desired that the bequest should be applied to some particular department of the work, there should be substituted for the words "FOR THE USE OF THE SOCIETY," the words 'FOR DOMESTIC MISSIONS,' or "FOR FOREIGN MISSIONS," or "FOR WORK AMONG THE INDIANS," or "FOR WORK AMONG COLORED PEOPLE," or "FOR WORK IN AFRICA," or "FOR WORK IN CHINA," etc.

THE PROGRESS OF THE KINGDOM

THE plague in China is a thing of the past. The terrible scourge which in a few weeks carried off at least 65,000 people, has been successfully combatted and conquered. This is, both directly and indirectly, a result of missionary effort. The conditions were far different from those existing in former days of plague and terror. The little band of mission doctors and nurses did not stand alone. Scores of young Chinese physicians trained in mission hospitals or the medical schools of Europe and America stood with them, and at the head of all was a Chinese physician, Dr. Wu Lin Teh, a graduate of Cambridge, England, and of the best medical schools of Paris and Berlin. The government, too, after a brief hesitation (which cost thousands of lives) determined to adopt Western methods of fighting the plague and acted with promptness and decision, accepting every suggestion of the missionary leaders. Thus was China saved from an overwhelming disaster and the whole world from a serious menace.

Bishop Bashford, of the Methodist mission, writing from Peking, says: "It is clear to all that, severe as the plague has been, it will prove a blessing in disguise through furnishing to the whole nation a demonstration of the ability of foreign-trained physicians at least to isolate and trample out a disease thus far regarded as invincible, through the enlargement of the world's knowledge of plague in general, and of the pneumonic plague in particular, and through the marked appreciation by the Chinese of the work which missionaries are accomplishing in the Empire."

THAT the beneficial effects of the Edinburgh Conference are not to be dissipated, and that the progress made in solving missionary problems and harmonizing missionary effort will not be lost, was made evident at a meeting of the Continuation Committee, which took place recently at Auckland Castle. Twenty-eight of the thirty-five members were present and were the guests of the Bishop of Durham. For four days the deliberations of the committee continued. As results of this gathering the following may be noted: (1) It was reported that a board of study for the more effective training of missionaries in the languages, religions and customs of the countries to which they are to be sent had been formed by the missionary societies of Great Britain, and a similar board was in process of formation in North America. (2) The Special Committee on Unoccupied Fields was enlarged, and it will hereafter be known as the Committee on Missionary Survey and Occupation. It is authorized to gather information concerning the occupation of missionary fields and the general conditions prevailing therein. (3) New committees were appointed as follows: On Co-operation and Promotion of Unity; on Medical Mission Work; on the Mohammedan Problem; on the Preparation of a Statement of Recognized Principles Underlying the Relations of Missions and Governments. (4) It was decided to issue the International Review of Missions, to be published quarterly as a means of communication between the Continuation Committee and the leaders of missionary enterprise throughout the Christian world. (5) Dr. John R. Mott, chairman of the committee, was asked to devote a considerable portion of his time to promoting a knowledge of the work and plans of the committee. (6) It was decided that the next meeting of the committee should be held at some place in North America in September of next year.

THERE came to the treasurer some time ago a check for $125. It was marked "For General Missions," and the request was made that it be acknowledged under Miscellaneous Items as being sent by a friend. Those who may chance to read it in the acknowledgment columns will probably altogether miss its significance, as we are sure the donor intended they should. We must not betray her further than to say that she is one of our missionaries in a hard field and that the contribution represented her salary check for the entire quarter which she returned, endorsed over to the treasurer of the Board. When will the people who rejoice in their Christian blessings sitting in their pews at home, learn some measure of the joy of giving which fills the heart of one who can not only give herself for the work but surrenders one-quarter of her entire income to help on the cause which she loves?

A Significant Offering

THE Hartford School of Missions, which is announced to open next September at Hartford, Conn., is an outgrowth of the A School of World Missions Conference held in Edinburgh last June. The reports of the several commissions, notably that on the Preparation of Missionaries, revealed a demand for special preparation with a view to higher efficiency on the part of foreign missionaries. Mission work is becoming so varied and its demands so great that the general and professional training hitherto deemed sufficient requires supplementing. It was with this in mind that the Hartford School of Missions was projected.

Among the Americans honored by prominent places at the Edinburgh Conference was the Rev. Dr. W. D. McKenzie, president of the Hartford Theological Seminary. He, together with Dr. Edward W. Capen, another member of the Commission, are the moving spirits in this new undertaking—the first-mentioned being the head of the school and the second the organizing secretary.

It is the purpose to offer a year of special study to those purposing to go as missionaries, and to missionaries at home on furlough. The faculty of this graduate school will be made up from several Christian bodies and will represent a number of different institutions—among them Trinity College, Hartford. Comprehensive courses have been planned in preparation for the delivery of the missionary message, including psychology, pedagogy, phonetics, history of missionary work and conditions, care of health, business methods, etc.

It is the hope of those who are promoting this enterprise that it may not only serve a good purpose by way of better preparation for the outgoing missionary, but also furnish a stimulus to the missionary on furlough who desires to acquaint himself with the conditions in other fields and profit by the experience gained in them. It would seem that the school is devised to meet a real need in the preparation of those who are carrying the Message into foreign lands.

THE Bishop of Madras thinks it more than probable that within the next century fully 30,000,000 of the out-caste people of India will be gathered into the Christian Church. Bishop Whitehead is generally recognized as

and the Christian Church*

one of the highest authorities on Indian affairs. His first service, during the nearly twenty-five years of his Indian life, was in connection with the Oxford Mission in Calcutta. Here he was in close contact with the student population and came to know the needs and the attitude of the intellectual classes. His later work as bishop in a densely populated section of southern India leads him to think that for the present it is better missionary statesmanship to centre effort largely upon the low-caste people. About 95 per cent. of the people of India live in villages. The out-castes, totalling about 50,000,000, form fully one-sixth of India's population. Their lot is practically hopeless, save where Christian missions and enlightened English officials help to better it. Their needs receive scant consideration in native schemes for reform. Most of them are in a condition little better than abject slavery and all are subject to humiliating restrictions. Frequently, for instance, their women are denied the right to clothe themselves modestly, while the doors of many Hindu temples are shut in the faces of men and women alike. In Christianity, therefore, these millions of out-castes find their only religious and social hope. In the last fifty years nearly 500,000 of them have entered the Christian Church. Possibly the motives of all were not unmixed, yet the gain, regarded merely from the social standpoint, has been great. Bishop Whitehead would, therefore, seem to be wise in urging greater effort on behalf of these people. Great mass movements toward Christianity are occurring among them, and there is a danger, by no means remote, that they may literally swamp the inadequately staffed mission agencies.

In spite of their miserable lot, these low-caste people have some of the elements that go to produce strong character. One of the ablest members of the Edinburgh Missionary Conference was a young Indian from the Diocese of Madras whose family is of the out-caste type. Admirably trained, keenly intellectual, deeply spiritual, an able speaker and executive, he is probably the most efficient of the younger clergy of the Church in India. Unquestionably among the millions of the out-castes there are many others who only need the stimulating power of Christian faith and the Christian ideal to convert them into mighty leaders of their own people. The American Episcopal Church has no direct responsibility in India because, as a part of the British Empire, it is, so far as the Anglican Communion is concerned, the exclusive field of the Church of England. Nevertheless, the American Churchman, surveying the progress of the Kingdom, is naturally deeply interested by what happens in India, both because it is a field containing almost one-fifth of the population of the world and because of the excellent work being carried on there by American Christians of other communions.

FROM time to time we have printed articles concerning St. Paul's Normal and Industrial School at Lawrenceville, Va.

A Call for Help

They have convinced the reader that nowhere in the South is a more useful work being done by the Colored people. For many years in a very practical way, St. Paul's, under the leadership of Archdeacon Russell, has been quietly accomplishing what many of the rest of us have for an equal number of years only been talking about. It has been concerned with providing an education which will educate the Negro without spoiling him, and will fit him for practical work in whatever sphere of life he can accomplish most for himself and his people.

Nor has the school existed for its students alone. Its influence in the community has been profound, and the perfectly evident results accomplished by its extension courses among the farmers of Brunswick county are deserving of unstinted praise. Here, then, is an institution doing the thing which all of us agree should be done—making useful and self-reliant citizens among the members of the black race; a powerful leaven for Christian righteousness and good citizenship. This school naturally appeals for help in its work and has a right to expect it.

A statement has been put forth, signed by the Bishops of West Virginia and New York, Archdeacon Russell and the Secretary of the American Church Institute, which ought to be read attentively and acted upon conscientiously by those members of the Church who cannot give their lives to this work, but may supply the lesser though most necessary means for carrying it on.

The statement is as follows:

THE BISHOP'S RESIDENCE,
Norfolk, Va., April 27th, 1911.

The undersigned, representing the American Church Institute for Negroes, and the St. Paul Normal and Industrial School, appeal to Churchmen and those interested in the cause of Negro uplift for the immediate relief of St. Paul's School. The school has reached a crisis in its development. Efficiently organized, possessing a unique opportunity for service in the Black Belt of Virginia, having to a rare degree the confidence of its community, white and colored, producing through its former students marked improvements in homes and communities all through the South, and thus manifesting a highly potent force for the regeneration of Negro life and character, it has now reached the point at which it must have larger resources for its rapidly-extending work, or must retrench, to the serious injury of its efficiency and to the retardation of the whole cause of Negro progress. The school has operated this year nearly $9,000 within the budget which, at the beginning of the year, was thought absolutely necessary to the keeping of its contracts with its students, yet the school faces a heavy deficit. It is unquestionably true that the social and moral advancement of Negroes in Brunswick and adjoining counties, the multiplication by more than eightfold of Negro property in those counties, has been due to the influence of St. Paul's School. We do not believe that Churchmen and friends of the Negro North and South will consent to the loss of such an institution or to the permanent injury of its efficiency. The Institute has the confidence of the board of trustees of St. Paul's School, and it, on its side, confidently commends the School to the sympathy of the Church. The Institute is trying to raise $1,000,000 for its work with St. Paul's and other schools connected with it, and the school is trying to raise $100,000. Fifty thousand dollars is immediately needed and small gifts will help to raise the amount. They may be sent to George Foster Peabody, 43 Exchange Place, New York City, marked for St. Paul's; or, if givers prefer, to Charles E. May, Bank of Lawrenceville, Lawrenceville, Va.

THE SANCTUARY OF MISSIONS

LORD, what a change within us
one short hour
Spent in thy presence will prevail to make!
What heavy burdens from our bosoms take,
What parchèd grounds revive, as
with a shower!
We kneel, and all around us seems to lower;
We rise, and all, the distant and the near,
Stands forth a sunny outline brave and clear.
We kneel, how weak! We rise, how full of power!
Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong,
Or others, that we are not always strong;
That we are ever overborne with care;
That we should ever weak or heartless be,
Anxious or troubled, when with us
is prayer,
And joy, and strength, and courage are with thee!

THANKSGIVINGS

"We thank thee"—

For the better realization of missionary obligation on the part of clergy and people, and for the wider spiritual horizon which results from such recognition.

That the good work done by Christian hospitals in heathen lands is being understood and appreciated by those on behalf of whom the service is rendered. (Page 575.)

For the manifest blessing which has accompanied the reopening of our work in Changsha. (Page 555.)

For the first giving of the Holy Ghost in ordination within the ancient Chinese city of Wusih.

For examples of loving generosity in service and sacrifice.

For all wise and loving efforts which are being made to educate and uplift the mountain people of the South.

INTERCESSIONS

We pray thee—

That as we celebrate the independence of our nation we may realize, and help others to realize, that thy service only is perfect freedom.

To bless abundantly those who teach and those who learn in the summer schools gathered throughout our land, giving them the true vision of thy great purposes for themselves and for all mankind.

That thy Church in these last weeks of the fiscal year may not forget her responsibility to maintain her soldiers at the front.

That wisdom and courage may be granted to our missionaries charged with the responsibility of the reopened work at Changsha. (Page 555.)

That the work done in Porto Rico may be blessed and prospered.

That the fulness of thy grace and blessing may rest upon the ministra-tions of our brethren who in the land of India seek to bring to the very lowest the knowledge and inspiration of the Master's life. (Page 551.)

PRAYER

IN DIFFICULTY AND DISCOURAGEMENT

GREAT Captain of the Host, who hast set each one of us in his little place because there each might find his greatest opportunity of service; help us to believe in that wisdom, and to seek and find the deeper meaning of our lives. Give us, we pray thee, a large patience and a larger love. May we fear nothing so much as entire satisfaction with our work, and dread nothing so greatly as that we shall be found sleeping at our post. May we have grace to live a soldier's life, and courage to meet a soldier's death; that having fought the good fight and kept faith with thee, we may know at last how good it is to have stood fast in thy name, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, one God, world without end. Amen.

GUESTS AT A DINNER GIVEN BY THE HUNANESE GENTRY TO THE FELLOWSHIP SOCIETY. (See page 558)

The foreigners left to right are: Bishop Banister, Anglican diocese of Kwangsi-Hunan; the Rev. G. G. Warren, Wesleyan Superintendent; the Rev. W. J. Hail, Dean of the Yale School; the Rev. E. Cooper, Wesleyan Mission; the Rev. A. A. Gilman; two doctors of the Yale Mission.

THE SOUTH GATE OF CHANGSHA

One of the seven portals for the traffic of 250,000 people

THE AFTERMATH OF THE RIOT

By the Reverend A. A. Gilman

Our readers will remember that the Rev. Mr. Gilman, our missionary at Changsha, suffered a year ago the fate of all other foreigners, being driven out in the rice riots which took place there. Practically all mission property was destroyed. Now, however, the various missionaries have returned and Mr. Gilman tells in the following article with what prospects they have again begun their work.

A YEAR ago we returned to our work in Changsha full of enthusiasm engendered by meeting, during our furlough in America, so many friends deeply interested in our work whom we were assured were praying and working for us continually. Our enthusiasm was heightened still more on our return by a cordial reception and by the flattering development of our boys' school. And then, before we were fairly settled, the riot came which seemed to falsify all our statements about the progress of Changsha and to delay all those plans which we felt to be working to a speedy conclusion.

The ground lay fallow until the fall, when we all returned. And from that time we have been having a continuous series of surprises which more than reward our former years of patience with seeming unfruitfulness.

Our most remarkable event is the cure of a "demoniac." Early in November our cook, a young man of twenty some years, was taken one night with cholera. The Yale Mission doctors by faithful work saved his life, but just at the moment when recovery was assured he went mad, and his madness took the form of demoniacal possession. It seems that the Chinese are given to reading absurd stories of demon possession, and it was felt that this young fellow had so filled his mind with this truck that now in his weakness his disordered brain made it into a terrible reality. The medical men found him a most difficult case, having to bind him with cords to his bed and force him to eat. It happened that just at this time I myself was in bed with another of the diseases of the East. On my recovery the thought came to me that I had always been anxious to come face to face with a case of demon possession, so many cures of which are related in the life of Pastor Hsi, the noted Christian of Shansi. I determined to act as though this were such a case and attempt a cure. On Friday I called in the Rev. Mr. Huang and the catechist, and asked them to join with me in prayer for him, and declared that I would visit him on Monday. On Sunday Mr. Huang announced in church that with the help of their prayers I was about to perform a miracle. The cook was of course known to them all, and several had seen him in his mad plight raving about the demons who were after him.

Monday morning came and I went to see him. He recognized me, and then went off into a wild delirium. He frothed at the mouth and several times spat in my face. I told him that I had come to save him, and asked him to keep his eye on my little gold cross, which I held in front of him. He answered that he was past saving; that 5,000 Taoist priests could not save him. I answered that that was probable, but that I, through the power of the Saviour, would restore him to his mother. I labored with him for an hour, but he persistently refused to do anything that I asked him to do, and kept reiterating that it was all over with him. I had only one thing to keep me from discouragement—that he had given me enough attention to fight my suggestions. After a prayer I left him, saying that I would return on the morrow. Almost as soon as I had left he dropped into the first peaceful sleep which he had had in two weeks. The next morning he took his food without forcing, and when I came he received me with a smile and said that he hoped he had not cursed me the day before. I prayed with him and assured him of complete recovery. He was no longer mad, but was very fearful of four demons whom he saw floating about. Within a week, his last fear had disappeared and he has since been absolutely free from any recurrence. The how, or why, or philosophy of the thing I will leave to the reader, but one thing I know—that it is a powerful stimulant to me in my work to realize that by strong faith in our Lord I was able to do such a work of mercy on a member of my household.

After the riot, the officials seemed as eager to cut off heads as they were loath to use soldiers beforehand. There is but little doubt that considerable loot from our premises was taken by our neighbors. Many of them were apprehended by detectives. We stated strongly that we wished no bloodshed on our account. The result was that a considerable number of our imprisoned neighbors were released. Since our return our neighbors are very friendly and seem to have lost somewhat of that fear which has tended to prevent them from coming near us.

We now have over one hundred children on the compound. There are forty girls in the primary day-school, practically all heathen, a splendid field for influence if the woman worker whom we so desire would only come to us. Before we have had children come to our school, but now their mothers come to church—which shows great progress. We long for a large-hearted woman who can care for these people, who are ready to be taught but have no one to teach them.

In the boys' primary school we have over thirty boys, and just forty in the boarding-school. The increase from twenty-five to forty has been made possible by a readjustment of some of the Chinese buildings on our property.

THE EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION BUILDING, CHANGSHA

This large building has just been erected on the ground occupied by the old examination halls. It is a sign of the transformation which is taking place in Chinese ideals of education

These forty boys are in a good sense a miscellaneous collection. One of them is the nephew of the Director of Education. No one knows just why he is sent here. It may be as a spy, or perhaps because of his uncle's confidence in the morale of the school. A number come to us from the foreign commercial intercourse, and some from other missions which have no school work.

The Church life of the older people is beginning to manifest itself. There has been organized a Men's Missionary Society, which is more a St. Andrew's Brotherhood than what its name would signify in America. The members are many of them young scholars.

Since my return, I have carried out two lines of work to which I had looked forward: The first is the publishing of small pamphlets for distribution among the thousands of students in the Government schools. The first pamphlet showed the benefit which would accrue to them from intercourse with missionaries, whether they finally became Christians or not. The second was entitled "The Perfect Philosophy," and was largely based on the works of Illingworth. I have translated an article on "Belief in God" and "Immortality," as essentials of the evolution of man. The scholars' mouths are full of evolutionary nomenclature, and this article, written by a classmate of mine at the University of Nebraska and published in The Hibbert Journal, seemed especially calculated to make them realize that a New China would never appear without hope in God.

The other form of work is of a social nature—inviting students and others to our family table. This cannot be done successfully until the host has fairly mastered the language, for failure to understand does not conduce to mutual intimacy.

In the life of Changsha there are three new things of great influence, the railroad, the Educational Association and the Legislature. The railroad has been in some ways a cause of anxiety, owing to the strong opposition to the foreign loan. Right now, more than ever before, the Chinese fear partition. They feel that just as they are about to achieve a real government for the first time they are in grave danger of being defeated through the interference of foreign governments. Many people may think that a railroad loan has nothing to do with such a question, but Chinese history would seem to show a very intimate connection, and so the people of our province are bitterly opposed to foreign loans. There is in this no more anti-foreign spirit than resides in the breasts of loyal Americans. During the past year, a Hunanese scholar cut off his finger and wrote a protest in his life's blood against this foreign loan—but as soon as the work was done he sent for Dr. Hume, of the Yale Mission, to dress his finger.

Not only so, but this same man was the middle party in bringing about what we feel is the beginning of a new era. When I returned to Changsha I discovered, not far from our house, a large building built in foreign style on the ground of the old examination halls. On inquiry, I learned that this building was the Hunan Educational Association Building, and had been built with money contributed by scholars throughout the province. The president of this association, as also now of the Provincial Legislature, is T'an Yin K'ai. This gentleman is a Hanlin, i.e., he has the highest literary degree given by the Chinese Government. He has become famous by being the leader of the reform party. Associated with him are several other scholars of high official rank. A number of missionaries and Chinese Christians were consulting about methods of forwarding the work when it was suggested that it would be a good thing to organize an association where we might meet these men in a social and educational way. As I have said, the man of the cut finger was the "middle-man," and he did his work well, for we have feasted and been feasted by these leaders, who have been most cordial. We are now having a series of public meetings at which one of them, and one of the Christian body, speaks on some question of vital interest. Even if not one of these men should be brought under the yoke of Christ we feel that, at a time like this, when all kinds of humors, anti-foreign and otherwise, are apt to harm our work, to be thus closely associated with those who are recognized as peculiarly the patriotic and upright leaders is a move of consummate strategy.

The erection of the nave of our projected church is now assured. This, being placed as it is behind an open iron paling on one of the principal streets of the city, is bound to speak its silent message of the Gospel, which message, though silent, is to my mind not by any means of small influence. When the day comes that we are able to complete the whole church according to the adopted plan it will be a sign to the whole province of the need of religion, just as the building across the way gives witness to the need of the new learning.

The attitude of workers in Changsha has changed from one of apology because our work is so slow to one of expectation that our new methods among this energetic people will soon show remarkable results.

Each year generally shows some civic work to the credit of the Rev. Mr. Huang, my co-laborer here. Last year it was in connection with the famine. This year he averted a riot and brought peace and harmony to the Guild of his native province (Hupeh) here in the city. The offices of this guild had become a private sinecure. A popular demand was made for reform, which was at first resisted. By the kindly offices of Mr. Huang, a settlement agreeable to all was reached, with the result that they wished to make Mr. Huang one of the officials. He asked me what to do and I told him by all means to refuse, for he must be, as far as possible, a Hunanese, and that in any case he should maintain a position where he could, if necessary, be a mediator between the people of the two provinces.

Since the first part of this article was written we have entered into a crisis in connection with the railway. The central Government has declared that the Hunan Railway shall come under the direction of the National Bureau of Railways, and has negotiated a loan for its construction. This action has aroused the fiercest antagonism here, which has gone so far that printed tracts have been issued over the names of the Provincial Assembly, the Chamber of Commerce and the Educational Association, i.e., the Literati, declaring that this measure will be resisted by force and to the death. This is the cloud which has been hanging over us for two years, and even if the breaking of it should mean civil war there would be greater hope of getting on than there has been through these months of indecision. All these things, in spite of riots, disturbances and misunderstandings, are really working out the salvation of this country. For this reason we are not dismayed, even when we fear for our lives. These people are fighting the Evil One, and they find him in so many disguises and ambushes that they are at their wits' end; but the day of light is coming soon.

THE PUPILS OF OUR GIRLS' SCHOOL, CHANGSHA

THE SILVER BAY CONFERENCE

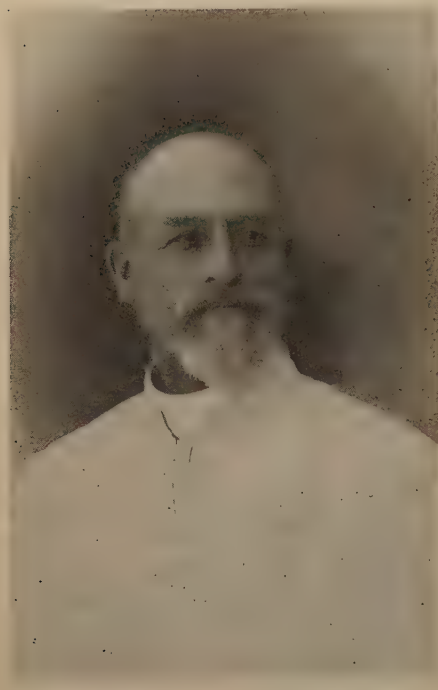

THE summer conference at Silver Bay on Lake George, N. Y., under the management of the Young People's Missionary Movement, will be held from July 11th to the 21st.

This conference is intended to equip young people for intelligent service along missionary lines, and its chief feature consists of mission study classes. Because of the fact that this year the Sunday-school conference, which has usually been held separately, is combined with the general conference, a much larger opportunity is offered. The classes are in charge of competent leaders from different communions. Institutes are held on various subjects, and there are platform meetings, at which time the delegates are given an opportunity of hearing from the missionaries of the different Boards.

It is very desirable that there shall be a large delegation from the Church. We have much to receive from such a conference, as well as much to give.

A VISIT TO VIEQUES WITH A CAMERA

By the Bishop of Porto Rico

FULLY a year had elapsed since my last visit to the island of Vieques, called Crab Island on the map. Some say it derived this latter name from the great number of land crabs that inhabit its sandy shores; others tell of historic days when it was a penal settlement where prisoners were sent, the greater number of them coming from a place in Porto Rico called Cangrejos; which, being interpreted, means crabs.

It prefers to be called by the name of Vieques, given by the Spaniards in honor of one of their generals; and one can hardly blame it for that. It is a weird, intense, picturesque little place, taking itself quite seriously, and regarding the rest of the universe rather as the source of supplies from which it may condescend to draw for its requirements, and to which it may in return send sugar, its principal product. Triangular in shape, it is twenty miles long by five miles in greatest width.

Several ways for going to Vieques are in existence, and quite as many for departing. It lies some ten or twelve miles due east from the town of Humacao in Porto Rico, but it is usually approached by sail-boat or steamer from Fajardo, which is twenty-one miles away. The prevailing east wind makes it easier for a sail-boat to go that distance, south by east, than half the distance on the Caribbean from Humacao in the teeth of the wind. Steamers prefer to go from Fajardo because it is more directly in line from San Juan.

If you are wise you will plan to go, as I did, by steamer, though it will cost you more and you must select the right date. The United States mail boats, two in number, sail one each day going and coming. The steamer charges $4 for the trip one way; the mail boat charges $1. It costs 50 cents to be taken in a row boat from the shore to mail boat or steamer, and the same when you go ashore. The steamer goes once in ten days, and you are fortunate if you can make your plans and your purse conform to its schedule.

It will cost you also $1.50 to go from the city of Fajardo, two miles, by carriage, to the playa, or harbor where you embark. And from San Juan to Fajardo, forty-two miles, by coach, costs $8 more. Quite a comfortable hotel, as Porto Rican hotels go, will keep you over night at Fajardo if you wish, for a tidy sum, and you may visit the moving picture show in the evening, if you have any small change left.

"The wrinkled sea beneath him crawls"

The steamer will sail from the playa of Fajardo at such time as it has discharged and put on cargo. It takes one hour and a half to go across to Vieques. The mail boat will sail at 6 A.M., and will reach Vieques—when it arrives! Sometimes in seven hours, sometimes in twenty-seven. This uncertainty helps to make the trip exciting, though it sometimes verges on the monotonous, especially if it rains, and more especially if you are becalmed. To be becalmed on the Caribbean! To lie at full length on a blistering deck with a sailor's coat for a pillow, and listen while he whistles for a breeze; or to huddle, in stifling heat with half a dozen other passengers of various complexions under some fragments of a heavy old canvas sail, and try to avoid the leaks when the flood-gates of a tropical rain are wide open—these are experiences which will cause you to regret the mistaken economy, or possibly the necessity of dates, which has led to your choice of the mail boat instead of the steamer.

But at last you land in Vieques, at the goodly town of Ysabel Segunda, on the bay of Porta Mula, the only town on the island. It has a population of some 5,000, which is about half the entire number of the inhabitants. Possibly you have thought it hardly worth while to bring along your camera. But if you are wise, you will again do as I did: and my difficulty was not to find objects worth photographing, but to choose among so many. Pictures everywhere! Pictures all the time! From early morning, when some stately figure in the market-place stands for a moment, erect, graceful, under the heavy basket poised securely on her head, on through the day that invites you to views of picturesque life in town and country, on shore and hill; through solitudes and social scenes, with groups of children on the leafy slopes of shadow-flecked quetradas or ravines; past enormous sugar mills which they call centrals, of which there are three on the island; under the ragged leaves of the plantain, or the tall stems of the plume-topped cocoa palm—you covet the pictures that clamor on every side, and fairly seem to be posing for you and imploring you to take them.

Here, in its perennial loveliness, under the spreading flamboyant tree, just now in full bloom, nestles our dear little All Saints' Church; a plain, wooden building, made lovely by its churchly altar and the graceful furnishings we have been able to place within, and adorned without by exquisite form and color of the tropical flowers and foliage that make both church and parish hall a vision of rare beauty.

Here, in a peaceful, quiet ministry lives our faithful priest, the Rev. Leonard Read, "a man to all the country dear," of whom I might easily speak in a number of Goldsmith's beautiful lines were it not that he is liable to see this article and I must spare his blushes. Many of the people remember his venerable father, who was Archdeacon of Antigua, a neighboring island; but more of them revere him for his own worth, and for his kind sympathy with their sorrows, their burdens and their joys.

Here Miss Sarah R. Davidson, our indefatigable parish helper, delights to fill her busy hours with helpful works of the purest missionary character. I have not found a more beautiful picture in all the days of my visitation than that of her little embroidery class; nor any sweeter music than when she played the little portable organ while they sang the Church's hymns of Ascension-tide in the Spanish words.

They often have droughts of great duration in Vieques, when water sells for ten cents a pailful, or rather a kerosene-oil-can full, that being the favorite water vessel. But there has been no drought this time. I have been here nine days—the steamer comes to-morrow and I must be on board at dawn—and of the nine days I have spent here it has rained seven! And such rains! I will not attempt to describe them, nor the condition in which they leave the streets and roads, no one of which knows anything about paving stones.

Yet I have been able to go about between storms, and fill my camera three times over. Perhaps it was as well that it rained, or I would not have known how or when to stop taking pictures. Perhaps it may be as well to let my readers know that there are still a few left. I have not taken them all.

Vieques, as I have said, takes itself pretty seriously. It seems particularly serious when it comes to politics and election day. Just now the island is Unionista. Formerly, and until the election of last fall, it had been for a good many years Republicana. These two great parties differ, I think, mainly in membership. I cannot discover a great amount of difference in principle, though I am told that one of them—never mind which one—is anti-American, anti-foreign, and very Spanish in its sympathies. The other is said to be the opposite of all these things.

The seriousness of the election time may be illustrated by an incident which has been told me since I came. It seemed necessary to the party that was out, that is the Unionistas, that they should get in. In order to do this they must have votes, so they brought over a boat-load of voters, some eighty-six in all, from the Porto Rican shores, and let them vote—early, freely and often. They won; but, as the same thing had been done by the Republicanos at Guayama, it was thought best not to make any fuss.

IN THE MARKET PLACE

But what about the registration lists? How could such a thing be done? perhaps you may ask. Well, if a Unionist leader wants my voting list, and is willing to pay me $50 for it, I being an officer of election, and in sympathy with his "principles," it is perfectly easy to arrange the matter and even to secure some votes from the cemetery.

Of course I could not swear that this took place. All I say is that Vieques takes its politics and itself very seriously. I have heard of a cook who gave up a good position which she had held successfully for some years. When asked why she did so she replied that she had changed her politics and could no longer serve in the house of those who did not belong to her party.

I have told Mr. Read that I hoped he would be able to make All Saints' Church such a force for the moral elevation of the community that people would take their religion as seriously as they take their politics. But Mr. Read is making no rash promises.

I landed Saturday morning in a drenching rain; on Sunday we had Holy Communion, Morning Prayer with sermon, and after that Sunday-school. Evening Prayer and sermon ended the day; but it was depressing, the rain keeping so many people away. On Wednesday night, we had Evening Prayer, with the Rogation Day prayer, but it seems rather in need of local adaptation to suit it to a land of so much fertility that truly the reaper may be said to tread on the heels of the planter. Next day was Ascension Day; Holy Communion and Evening Prayer without sermon; rainy. By this time I had made up my mind to see what could be done, through a renewed use of our Spanish services, to interest the nearby people. So notice was given that on the following Sunday night the services would be in that language. Sunday morning, Holy Communion, Morning Prayer and sermon; the clouds were gone, the day was bright and there were fifty-three people in church. I preached on the text, from the Epistle for the day, "If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God." I tried to show them how the eager apostles had to wait for the coming of the Holy Spirit before they could speak "as the oracles of God," and that we, with our treasures in prayer book, hymnal, sacraments and teaching, must speak in the same way, even in some sense doing what the Holy Spirit enabled them to do on Pentecost, when "every man heard them speak in their own tongue wherein they were born." In this way I tried to prepare the way for a grand service as a climax to my visit.

A SUMMER COSTUME IN VIEQUES

We had fifty-five in the congregation that night and all could join in the worship, although Mr. Read tells me there were only four of them who did not speak English. I do not call it very much of a "climax," but it was a "rouser" in point of singing! We had six hymns and chanted the Nunc Dimittis. There was time for only one lesson, and I read, for that, the Gospel for Ascension Day. Instead of preaching I took the time to give the congregation a little teaching in the way to find the places in the Prayer Book and to make responses. The greater part know all about this in English, and their worship is always earnest, reverent and hearty. In Spanish, they will grow more accustomed to it, and I believe our beautiful liturgy will win its way into many hearts that are not with us yet.

At all events I think I made it plain that God's Church is not for a favored few, but for all His people everywhere.

Mr. Read lives in that part of the parish house which is toward the sea. He has a fine telescope, with which one can see the people on a distant vessel and distinguish their features. I have in these lines been turning the telescope around, as it were, in order that this little island might be seen to be alive, and that its people might come into view with their interests, their loves, their life-history and their importance. I shall hear the steamer's whistle with regret, and I ask my readers not to forget the things I have shown them in this beautiful island, after we have put the telescope back in its place and folded the camera away.

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF ST. PAUL'S, OSAKA

THE FAMILY LIFE OF A JAPANESE CHURCH

By Leila Bull

ST. PAUL'S, Osaka, recently celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of its organization. The history of St. Paul's is unique, in that its founders attempted a quarter of a century ago to organize a self-supporting church independent of aid from the Missionary Society.

For three years they worshipped in a small hired house, then they acquired a lot and a church building. Loss of many of the original members by death or removal to other places has prevented the congregation from carrying out their intention to be entirely self-supporting, but they have kept the church property intact, built a rectory adjoining the church on the back of the lot, paid their running expenses and a part of the pastor's salary, and at the social meeting which followed the solemn service it was decided to attempt once more to become a wholly self-supporting church.

A visit to this church on a Sunday morning will reveal a second point in which this work is unique. One sees the front seats of at least one-third of the building filled with children, whose fresh voices join in hymn and canticle, in creed and response. And many a bright young face is bent over the Sunday-school prize Bible, following as the lessons are read. On the one Sunday in the month when the Holy Communion is celebrated at this later hour, the bright active boys and intelligent girls may be observed listening to the pastor's interesting, helpful sermons; for he has the rare gift of ability to clothe deep thoughts with such clear language and illustration that even the children can understand. And they are not too tired for a Junior Auxiliary meeting after the long service is ended.

On other Sundays of the month there is usually no sermon at the morning service, but after the office for Morning Prayer is finished the children march to a processional hymn into the rectory, and parlor, dining-room and study become class-rooms for the different grades of the Sunday-school. The congregation in the church resolves into a Bible-class under the instruction of the pastor. Here are members—one over seventy years of age—who love Our Lord and His Church so well that they think it no hardship to attend a daily Lenten service in the cold, gray dawn, before their day's work begins. Here are women of the Mite Society, whose savings have helped to pay for the Church property and who are always having an eye on the condition of the cushions and floor coverings. Here are mature Christians to whom these precious truths of God's Holy Word are the daily food of their souls, and "inquirers" who are hearing them explained for the first time, the latter won perhaps by the beautiful lives of the former to ask, "What new doctrine is this?"

From the "best parlor," upstairs in the rectory, the English Bible-class and their American teacher can see into the neighboring park-like grounds of a Shinto shrine. These, too, are full of children playing among the trees, and their shouts mingle in our ears with the voices of the infant class below, singing "Jesus loves me." Beyond the further wall of the little park rises the magnificent roof of one of the largest Buddhist temples in the city.

The great Buddhist temple with its idols and its thousands of adherents, the picturesque Shinto shrine with its hundreds, the little, insignificant-looking Christian church, with its 225, standing side by side in the middle of this great bustling city! How unequal seem their opportunities to influence its people! We need to remind ourselves that by the mighty power of God, His truth will surely triumph at last over all error.

But the time seems so long, the workers are so few, and most discouraging of all is the comparatively meagre attendance of adult members at the Church services. We must admit that they have one excuse which their American like-minded brethren have not. The Lord's Day is not yet observed in Japan as it is in Christian lands. The man who rests with his household on the first day of the week runs the risk of losing his clients, his customers or his job, and he fears he will not be able to make a living nor to pay his pledge for the Church expenses. We who have not this temptation mourn the lack of faith and of the martyr spirit of the primitive Church, in which lives were risked for the privilege of worshipping together.

Yet with what patience and hope the pastor, the catechist, the Bible-woman and the more faithful members follow up the weak ones whose faces are seldom seen in the church except on great occasions like this twenty-fifth anniversary. For this church is unique in being like one big family. All the professions, many kinds of business and trades, the learned and the ignorant, the poor and the rich, are represented among the members; but these distinctions seem to disappear in their relations to one another, and a truly beautiful spirit of brotherly love and sympathy prevails. The foreign teachers are made to feel that they are not strangers in a strange land, but members also of this delightful family.

The catechist of St. Paul's is a skilful performer on the Satsuma biwa, and at social meetings he has been wont to sing for us the heroic odes of Japan. We watch his flashing plectrum as it stirs the murmuring strings or beats rhythmically upon the wooden surface of the guitar-like instrument, and fancy we hear the prancings of steeds, the onslaught of battle, the cries of triumph or the strains of mourning for a lost cause and dead heroes. The profound stillness of the listeners is broken occasionally by the peculiar, ejaculatory cries with which the young men of a Japanese audience express their sympathy with the sad or joyful climaxes of the song accompanied by this instrument. At the Christmas social meeting it was a new song of struggle to which we listened, as Mr. Tanaka sang the "Ode of St. Paul's Church," written by the clever pen of one of the vestry. It told of high hopes only partially realized but never abandoned, and was filled with thanksgivings to the mighty Power by which alone progress had been made. It was the sons of the men who have until now borne the brunt of the fight who pointed the song with solemn, deep-voiced ejaculations, while small grandsons occasionally piped grave attempts at imitation in shrill treble. There was a storm of general applause at the jubilant closing strain: "St. Paul's, during its twenty-five years of life, has given five workers to the Nippon Sei Ko Kwai!"

Five men, baptized and nurtured at St. Paul's, who have consecrated their lives to the work of the whole Church! Who are they? Three are priests, one of whom is in charge of the congregation at our cathedral in Tokyo; another, also in Tokyo, is following very closely in the footsteps of the Master, in shepherding the poor, the sinful, the outcasts in the districts surrounding his church; the third is at an important church in one of the cities of the Kyoto diocese. Of the two others one is a teacher in our Tokyo schools, the other, originally an Osaka business man, is now one of the most earnest of the catechists of the Kyoto diocese, with a faith which removes mountains. This man came from his little country station to attend the anniversary meetings, and the next day called upon a few of the prominent members of St. Paul's to stir them up. He pointed out that this is the time for a forward movement in every department of the church work; that by the blessing of God, in another ten years' time the congregation will have so increased that the present church building will be entirely inadequate; and urged them to begin preparations for a new one immediately by obtaining pledges to be paid in ten years from every member. He himself secured promises amounting to 9,000 yen, about $4,500. The rector and the catechist both promised to save generous sums out of their small salaries, the latter saying that if he failed to accomplish his pledge, he would sell the treasured biwa. But we hope that may be spared to accompany another new song of thanksgiving for the decade of merciful leading, by which holy desires may have been realized and greater opportunities created for sharing the light of the Gospel of our Blessed Lord with the multitudes still in darkness around us.

NEWS AND NOTES

WE are grateful to our readers for the generous and prompt response to our request for copies of the issue for October, 1910. A number have been sent and our need is supplied.

NOTICE has been widely given of a change of name which is to be effective July 10th, 1911, by which the Young People's Missionary Movement, so well known throughout the country, becomes the Missionary Educational Movement. It is felt that this better expresses the purpose for which the organization now stands. The change was authorized by a unanimous vote of the Board of Managers.

THE Church Missionary Kalendar, published by the alumnae of R. I. M. Mission Study Class, of Philadelphia, has become an established institution. Large numbers have been sold throughout the country. As a result of last year's sales $1,200 was sent to the treasury for general missions.

A special Kalendar committee has been appointed among the alumnae to take charge of the Kalendar for 1912, which will appear in an enlarged and improved form.

CLERGY PRESENT AT THE ORDINATION

FIRST ORDINATION AT WUSIH

By the Reverend Thomas K. Nelson

ON St. Mark's Day, April 25th, there took place in Wusih the ordination to the diaconate of Messrs. Koeh Dzung-mur and Voong Ts-kyuin. The service was of special interest to me, both because it was the first time I had heard it in Chinese, and because the candidates were in the first theological class that I had taught.

Bishop and Mrs. Graves, Dr. Pott and I went up to Wusih on Monday, a beautiful day, though very hot, so much so that the children to be seen in the villages and along the canals had, for the most part, dispensed with any garb other than that which nature gave them. At Soochow we were joined by the Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Griesser, and at Wusih we found the mission boat waiting to carry us along the canal beneath the grey walls of the city to the mission compound and to Mr. Mosher's house, where we found Mr. Nichols and where we were entertained during our stay.

After dinner I went with Mr. Nichols to a Bible-class conducted by the Rev. Mr. Tong. I had never before been through a Chinese city at night, and found it a strange experience. I was especially interested in a service being held in a room which we passed. This service was conducted with candles, incense, etc., entirely by old women, and I was told that they were Buddhists, apparently a sort of Woman's Auxiliary to the Buddhist Board. It gave me a weird sensation also to see the half-naked men crowded in the shops playing vile musical (?) instruments, smoking water-pipes, or drinking tea out of the spouts of the tea-pots. The class was held in the upper room of Mr. Koeh's house, where we found about twenty-five men waiting for us. Mr. Tong took St. Mark as the subject of the lesson, and the interest and attention of the men was worth seeing. We sang several hymns, and while the tune was a little erratic there certainly was a joyful noise which completely drowned the shouts and other sounds of the street.

Tuesday at 9 A.M. Morning Prayer was read by the Rev. Mr. Tsang, the deacon at Wusih. At 10:45 we vested in Mr. Mosher's study, and at eleven, summoned by the beautiful tone of the great bell, which is like those used in Chinese temples but was cast especially for the mission and is wonderfully rich and sweet, we marched to the church. There were fourteen clergymen in the chancel, seven native and seven foreign, in addition to the two candidates. Mr. Nichols preached the sermon in Chinese and the service was most impressive.

This service was memorable for many reasons. The mission at Wusih was opened ten years ago, when the Rev. P. N. Tsu, now rector of the Church of Our Saviour in Shanghai—the only self-supporting church which we have in China—came with two boys to Wusih and lived there on his boat until he could find a house and call Mr. Mosher to come and make the final arrangements for opening the mission. Since that time the work has grown until there are now two compounds with a house and dispensary on the one, and on the other a chapel, a women's building, a residence, and soon to be built a church, a catechists' school, and another residence, while work is being carried on at four different points in the city. This is typical of the way in which the work has expanded in all of our out-stations, and of the way it may grow in hundreds of Chinese towns if the men and the money are supplied.

It was fitting that Mr. Tsu should have a part in Wusih's first ordination service, and it was he who read the Epistle. One of the two boys who accompanied him on that first journey was the Rev. Mr. Tong, who is the priest now working at Wusih, and whose Bible-class has been mentioned. Of the two young men ordained, Mr. Koeh entered the school at Wusih when it contained only about a half dozen boarders, a short time after the station was opened, and passed from there to St. John's, from which he has just graduated and now he returns to help in the work at Wusih. Mr. Voong is the son of a catechist in Wusih, and with his father and brother entered the Church in Sinza before Wusih was opened. Now his grandmother, mother, sister-in-law with her two children, and his own fiancée are all baptized members of the Church in Wusih.

This service, then, meant much to a new arrival in China, because it typifies the growth in all of our mission stations, and still more the startling change which is taking place in China. The first Christian ordination in a Chinese city, with thousands of years of history behind it, reminds one of the time when "the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." The history of early Christianity and its conquest of the Roman Empire is, slowly perhaps, but just as surely, being repeated in China, and the whole setting of this service made one realize this very vividly. From the windows of the little chapel, which is in the second story of a building soon to be replaced by a substantial church, could be seen the city of Wusih, and in the distance a small hill crowned by a pagoda, and having for a background a mountain on which are three Buddhist temples, up the steep sides of which pilgrims are often to be seen toiling to worship gods which neither see nor hear.

It was a most striking contrast, and anyone who could have seen those few men gathered together in an upper room the previous night, just as the early Christians must often have done, and again could have seen the stately ordination service held for the first time in that ancient and beautiful but heathen city, would have felt that "Old China is indeed changing," and that in the moulding of the new, the Church has a wonderful part to play. In those two services may be found the answer to a question which used to be heard at home, but is never heard out here: "Are missions worth while?"

A "FORWARD MOVEMENT" IN A SUNDAY-SCHOOL

By the Reverend J. H. Cabot

WE hear much in these days about contagion and infection. They are generally thought of in relation to disease, but we are finding out that they also effect good things, and we have had a wonderful proof of this in the missionary activity of the Church. As a result of the General Convention last year, I had caught the "missionary germ" as never before, and when "the Forward Movement" number of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS reached me, matters came to a crisis. I felt I simply must do something. I will tell in a few words what I tried to do and how I went about it.

The things to be done were to spread the enthusiasm and so to systematize it as to bring concrete results. The field before me was my Sunday-school at the Church of the Advent, Boston. This is comparatively small and nearly all of its members were of very moderate means—many indeed are poor. But we know that if all work together, as the proverb saith: "Many a small maketh a grate."

To arouse enthusiasm I began, several weeks before Lent, to talk to the whole body of teachers—eighteen in number—about missions, giving them literature on the subject, and especially the Forward Movement Number of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS. I asked them to spend a few minutes each Sunday talking to their pupils on the subject, informally; at the end of the session I said a few words on missions to the assembled school. During Lent on Saturdays we had a Children's Eucharist, followed by a talk on Japan by a special student of the subject who was instructing our "Stewards" for "The World in Boston." On Sundays another teacher gave general talks on missions to groups of children for ten minutes at a time. We had also special missionary hymns, and stories read from the Children's Number of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS, laying especial emphasis in all this on the benefits heathen children have received by the spread of the Christian religion to their lands, and how much other children have done to spread our holy Faith. Much stress was laid upon the need and value of the children's prayers if they were to do their work for God and to help these other children.

To bring concrete results, a letter was sent before Lent to the parents of all our pupils, briefly stating our hopes and plans, and asking their sympathy and prayers. Each pupil was then asked on Quinquagesima Sunday to sign a card promising to pray every day for missions, to give a certain sum every day, and to try to learn about missions. Each child was given an envelope to put the offering into each day, and to bring to church each Sunday, when another envelope was given. Members were asked to sell copies of the Children's Number, and to secure annual subscriptions.

The results have surpassed our expectations. The largest missionary offering previously from our Sunday-school was $60. This year it amounted to $121.79, including half the return on the sale of sixty copies of the Children's Number and fifteen annual subscriptions. To have more than doubled our offerings is most gratifying, and we earnestly pray that our campaign has prepared the ground for even better results hereafter, by arousing a vital, prayerful and self-sacrificing enthusiasm in a very large proportion of our Sunday-school scholars.

THE MEN OF THE MOUNTAINS

By the Reverend W. S. Claiborne

IN the mountains of the South we have three millions of mountaineers, whom Bishop Horner calls the Highlanders of the South. These people are the descendants of the best Scotch, Irish and English families, with a few German. When and why they came to this section no one knows. We know the mountains were rather thickly settled before the Revolutionary War, and we find the mountaineers to-day using the English of Shakespeare's time, showing that they were rather early in settling these mountains. They have always furnished the United States Army with as many soldiers in proportion to the inhabitants as any other section of the country. The large majority of the mountaineers before the War of '61 were Whigs, consequently they joined the Northern Army. They believed it to be a political war, and that they must support their party.

The mountaineer is honest, brave and truthful, with a clear, logical, reasoning mind, and with absolutely no education. It is because he reasons out everything that he speaks slowly, and acts accordingly. He is slow to give you an answer if your question is out of the ordinary to him. He looks you straight in the eye when you are in conversation with him, and can tell as well by your countenance as by your words what you mean. One said to me some time ago, "I like Father Hughson because he looks me in the eye when he is talking to me."

Their reason for making and selling illicit whiskey is this: An old gentleman told me that some time ago he bought the farm we were then standing on (about ten acres of land) and paid for it. The Government levied a tax, which he paid, because they taxed everybody's property in the same way. On this place he raised corn, potatoes and some vegetables. He could sell his corn or the meal made from the corn without any extra taxation, but as soon as he turned the corn into whiskey the Government levied a tax, which he thinks it has no right to do, because it does not tax the corn or other things which he produces on the same property.

The mountaineer has a system of getting divorces and marrying whom and when he pleases, with or without the law. The laws are not rigidly enforced in this section of the country, as the courts are frequently composed of rather illiterate people who cannot be expected to know or do very much. It then becomes a question as to whether the judge is on the one side of the feud or the other. A prominent Judge of the United States Supreme Court, himself a mountaineer, had received a splendid education and had become a good lawyer. He and a friend, Mr. A., went out into the mountains to see some land which they had bought. They went to an old mountaineer's house and asked him to show them over the land. The mountaineer said, "We may get shot if these folks see yo'uns with me; they will suspect us being revenue officers; but if you're willing to go I'll run the risk." They went, and, fortunately, came through without harm. About two years afterward this same mountaineer was brought before the judge for trial. He had been selling illicit whiskey. When arraigned the judge said to him: "Have you anything to say, sir?" He said, "Yes, sir; do you remember when you and Mr. A. came to my house two years ago to look over some property, and asked me to go with you and show you the boundary lines? You remember, sir, I told you the danger we were in if we did it. Now, sir, I took my life in my hands to show you that property, and we were not hurt. I did that for you, sir, and now I want you to help me. I am guilty, sir, and want you to let me go home and come back at the next sitting of the court." This fine judge did without bond. At the next term of the court the old mountaineer was in his place for trial. He was found guilty and fined $50 and costs, which he couldn't pay, but Mr. A. stepped forward, paid the fine and costs, and sent the old man back to his mountain home happy in believing he had done no wrong.

Now the question comes, How can feuds be broken up, illicit distilling stopped and these people trained to be good American citizens? To the Christian the answer is simple—only Christianity will do it. Education alone has never stopped this sort of thing among any class of people, high or low; and why should we expect it among these people who for generations have believed they were right? One of the mountain preachers, who had murdered several men, told me that he did it to protect his family against the other side. The religion they have had handed down to them from past generations we sometimes think is worse than heathenism. Many of them believe that when once converted they are saved. The same preacher above mentioned told me that he was "saved," although he had murdered several men, and I am sure would murder as many more if he had the opportunity or provocation. He believed "once in grace always in grace," and he could misquote the Bible as often as any man I have ever known. This might well have been expected, as he couldn't read a word. His quotations had been handed down from generation to generation, being twisted and turned in the process so that you couldn't guess what he was trying to say or from what he was quoting.

The mountain schools, the best of them, last but four months and they are usually taught by illiterate teachers. It is impossible to get teachers into the mountains to live as they would have to do on the salaries they would receive. The only salvation for these people is the Church. With her simple, positive faith and her Bible authority, she can go in and take possession of these homes and change them from abodes of ignorance, superstition and murderous designs into the civilized homes of Christian families.

The mountaineer reasons about his religion as he does about everything else. Tell him that the Church gave the Bible; show him that St. Paul was writing to the Churches, at Ephesus and so on, and he is willing to accept the Church. Then tell him that he must be baptized; take his Bible (and they nearly all have some sort of Bible), show him that our Lord says, "Except ye are born of water and the spirit ye cannot enter the Kingdom of Heaven." Also tell him that he must be confirmed; show him that the very first thing St. Peter and St. John did after Pentecost was to go down to Samaria to lay hands on those whom Philip the Deacon had baptized. The mountaineer will draw his own perfectly correct conclusions. A mountaineer once said to me, "If confirmation was not necessary why did St. Peter and St. John take that long missionary journey from Jerusalem down to Samaria simply to lay hands on those that Philip had baptized? There was so much work to be done and such a small body of workers that the laying-on of hands must have been necessary or they would not have wasted the time. Now if it was necessary for the early Church and for the people in those days, it is necessary for us to-day; and the Church that does not practise confirmation is lacking in that much of a spiritual life, and the people to-day need as much of the spiritual life as they ever did."

Again, tell them that they must come to the Holy Communion; show them that Our Lord said in the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel, "Except ye eat my flesh and drink my blood ye have no life in you." In conversation with a mountaineer a few months ago he said: "Mr. X., I never understood what the Lord meant until I saw Bishop Gailor celebrate the Holy Communion. Since I have been able to read (and he was taught after he was thirty-eight years old), I have read the sixth chapter of St. John's Gospel over a good many times, but I did not understand it. It didn't mean anything to me. The Lord tells me that unless I eat His Flesh and drink His Blood I have no life in me. I didn't know where to go to receive it and so I could not understand why He would give me such orders without supplying a place for me to go. But after I went to the mission and heard the bishop, I saw and knew for the first time what our Lord meant in the Gospel."

Tell them that marriage is not a contract entered into by two people for convenience, or economy, or anything of that kind, but that it is a sacrament of the Church; show them the Church's service; read them what our Lord says about marriage, and they are willing to accept it. None of the sacraments do they explain away, nor do they want people to apologize for bringing the Church to them.

Now the world will say that this is a very pretty theory, but what of the practice? Go into any of the homes where the Church has been carried in this way and you will find homes clean and pure, no illicit distilleries, no murders; every man trying to help his fellow, begging him to come to the same mission and be taught as he has been taught. We have no divorces among such people. Go to a Churchman and say to him that he ought to get a divorce and his first question will be, "Sir, are you a Churchman? Well, in the Church we do not recognize nor marry divorced people." Before you get through you will be sorry that you suggested divorcement to him.

The most effective permanent work to be done is with the industrial school. The mountain boy must be taught how to use his hands and head—and with this, religion. We have at Sewanee ten missions, three mission schools, one industrial school for girls and another for boys. The girls are taught to cook, wash, sew, read, write and say their prayers—not one of which they formerly knew anything about. The boys are taught to farm, to carpenter, etc., and that a Christian ought to do a better day's work than anybody else, because he is a Christian. These people are easily taught, are very apt with their books and they go to the top of the ladder if they are only given an opportunity. Such men as Abraham Lincoln, Johnson, Jackson, Houston were born and raised in log-cabins in the mountains.

The personal experience of one priest will perhaps help to make clear the character of the work done among these people. He says: "On New Year's Day I had five services in the two churches on the mountain, rode eighteen miles to a funeral and also had to call on a man at the point of death from pneumonia. Uncle M., as he is called, is a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, and is eighty-two years of age. After spending some little time here looking after his medicine and provisions, arranging with two mountaineers to nurse until I could return, I rode home. The next morning I had to ride ten miles to see another old soldier of the same wars, who also had pneumonia. Here I found a dreadful condition of affairs; nothing to eat, no medicine and the wife sick from overwork and exposure. After staying with them most of the day, I had to ride some distance to get a man to look after them. Returning home late that night, I found a message which took me twelve miles in another direction to see an old veteran of the Northern army, who is also extremely ill. After spending all of that night and part of the day I returned home, retired at twelve o'clock that night and at two was called to go out and settle a fight which had occurred while I was with Mr. Y. Riding twenty miles that night I reached the house, and found a man badly beaten up, but not dead. Dressing the wounds and giving all concerned a good lecture, bringing about a mutual apology, I left them in peace—and they have continued so. Getting back in time to catch a train I had to go twenty-five miles to baptize six children at our mission school. I returned home, and found several sick here, who kept me very busy. A missionary has little time for reading and must prepare his sermons on horseback."

OUR LETTER BOX

Intimate and Informal Messages from the Field

The Rev. J. M. B. Gill, detailed on famine relief, writes under date of April 26th from Mengchen, China:

I AM just back from Shuang-chien-tsi, a market town thirty li north of this place on the Kuo River. That is the fourth centre at which we make distributions in this district, and it marks the end of our third distribution—one of cash last December and two of food-stuffs and clothing since. The day after to-morrow we begin the rounds again on our third and last distribution of grain. I rode a mile from here to Shuang-chien-tsi last Saturday, going up the west of the river and returned to-day riding down east of the river. These rides through the country give one an idea of the extent and the desperateness of the famine that one fails to get when seeing the crowds at the centres of distribution, for of course the strongest ones in the home must go for the food. In a trip through the country we get a glimpse of those who are too weak to travel. They are most pitiful, and eagerly inquire where you are going and when you will distribute grain to their section; or if you cannot stop and give them the grain then and there. Poor things! They must imagine we have pockets in our clothes like the widow's cruse. In many of the little hamlets they are really dangerous; they flop down in the road right in front of your mule or grab the bridle, the stirrups, or your clothes. It is no uncommon thing to pass dead bodies on the roadside, and we see many houses dismantled that they may sell the rafters and other woodwork for a few cash. The amount of accounting we have to do is quite heavy, and there is little time left for anything but the actual distributing and the accounts. Yet the family of the official in the yamen seem to think I have nothing to do but receive guests; for they are always coming in, looking and asking questions. We had a box of foreign clothing, all women's and children's, and the distribution of it furnished me with laughter enough to keep me cheerful a month; it was a welcome change from the monotonous scenes of misery and suffering.

The Rev. John A. Staunton, Jr., our missionary in the Philippines, requests the publication of the following:

IT has been called to my attention that one reading my article in the April number of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS would get the impression that there was no Igorot work being done at Baguio. I have read my article again in the light of that criticism and I am sorry to say that it might give that impression. I am extremely sorry that in dictating the article and in reading the proofs the thought that I was doing an injustice to the Baguio work and workers never occurred to me. My mind was naturally concentrated on our own work in the Sagada district, its people, and its needs.

Baguio, three or four days south of us, and not at all in the same "culture area," where an entirely different type of Igorots dwell, of course, has its flourishing Igorot school and work under the Rev. Robb White and Mrs. Hargreaves, which Churchpeople have learned to know about through THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS. This is a work which is as worthy of support as our northern Igorot missions at Bontoc and Sagada.

BISHOP KENDRICK says that the Convocation of the District of New Mexico held early in May was the best the district has ever held. It was distinctly a missionary convocation. The Rev. H. Percy Silver, Department Secretary for the Southwest, was present and spoke effectively upon the Church's general missionary work, and the necessity for a Forward Movement. The convocation responded heartily and appointed a district committee to further general missions. The past year in New Mexico has been the best year in the history of the Church. The number confirmed was larger than ever before.

The following interesting item comes to us from the Bishop of Connecticut:

DURING the winter and spring there has been in Hartford a clergyman of the Church of England, a missionary to Cairo in Egypt, who came to the Hartford Theological Seminary as the place in the world to study Moslem theology. Of course I was glad to license him to officiate, and, although he was studying hard, he assisted the rector of Trinity Church, Hartford, in some services. The compensation he received for these services it seems he divided, sending half to his mission work in Egypt, and half he sent me, asking me to forward it to our "Foreign Missionary Board" "as a thank-offering for inspiration and suggestion received from the American Church."

Dr. R. B. Teusler, the head of our St. Luke's Hospital, Tokyo, Japan, writes of a most interesting event:

A FEW weeks ago we received from the Department of the Imperial Household a document notifying us that His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan, had been pleased to notice the growth and development of St. Luke's Hospital, and that in recognition of our work amongst the poor and afflicted we would later receive a present as a token of approval. We of course felt very much this unexpected honor, especially as the hospital is well known to be a Christian institution and a part of the general work of our Church Mission.

The present has arrived, and with it a second scroll which is shown above the flowers in the accompanying picture. It reads thus:

PRESENTED TO
ST. LUKE'S HOSPITAL,
TOKYO

The hospital has striven for many years saving the poor and in excellent works of charity. You are charged to continue these beneficent deeds and, with the ever-increasing mercy, good results will come.

To applaud your merit this document is given in accordance with the will of
HIS IMPERIAL MAJESTY.

February 11th.

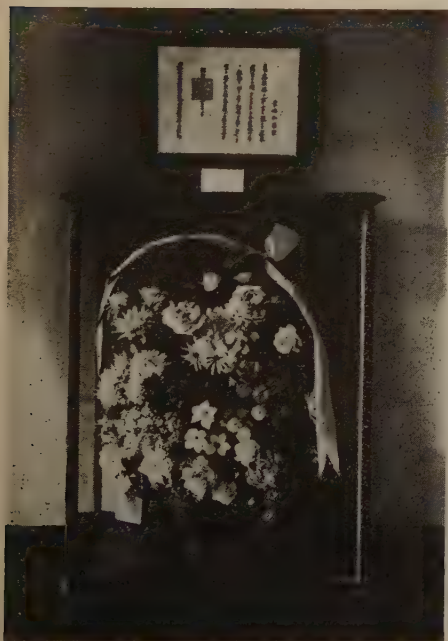

44th. Year Meiji.

The Minister of the Imperial Household,
BARON TOSUKE HIRATA.

The translation given is practically literal. The flowers are made of the finest Japanese silk and the work and colors are so perfectly executed it is impossible to tell them from nature. We are very proud of the gift and even more so of the scroll which bears the Seal of the Imperial Household and carries with it so kind a message of commendation from His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor of Japan.

We have placed the case containing the flowers and the scroll in the reception room of the hospital and it is the daily recipient of much admiration and respect from the many Japanese who come for treatment or to see their friends in the hospital.

The wards have been crowded all winter, and we hope very much to add this summer several new rooms which are urgently needed to take care of our immediate work. We now have six Japanese doctors, besides Dr. Bliss and myself, and should have much more ward room for the charity cases. The future of the work looks very bright indeed, and I hope this is only the beginning of many years of usefulness and success for our Church hospital in Tokyo.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

Rev. William E. Gardner, Editor

(Address all correspondence to the Editor, at 1 Joy Street, Boston, Mass.)

A MISSIONARY LESSON

General Subject: "Missions on Our Side of the World"

(PREVIOUS LESSONS: Introduction, September, 1910; The Indians, October, 1910; Going to the Coast, November, 1910; Alaska, December, 1910; Mexico, January, 1911; Brazil, February, 1911; Cuba and Porto Rico, March, 1911; The Church in the Canal Zone, April, 1911; The Negroes in the South, May, 1911; A Visit to St. Augustine's School, Raleigh, N. C., June, 1911.)

Lesson No. 11: "Among the Southern Mountaineers"

The material for this lesson is in the articles on pages 571-573, 580.

FROM now on it will be the aim of the department to have in each issue of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS an article in which the material necessary to the lesson will be found.

This plan will make lesson preparation easier, and encourage many to use the lessons.

This lesson and that of August complete the series entitled "Missions on Our Side of the Earth." A new series will be opened in September. A complete description of the new series will be given in the August number of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS.

A detailed explanation of the methods of teaching these lessons from now on will be omitted. It is expected that those who use them are already familiar with the methods. Those who are not should refer to the description of methods found in the issue of April, 1911.

The geographical point at which we arrive in this lesson is the Patterson School outside of the town of Lenoir, in the Asheville district. If the class is following the missionary journey trace a line on the map from Raleigh, N. C., to Asheville, in the western part of the state.

Aim

The teacher may find the following aim helpful: I desire to show my scholars the life of the Southern Mountaineers and some of the work that the Church is doing to help them get the best things of life.

Points of Contact

The points of contact best suited to this lesson centre about the review of the mountain geography of the eastern part of the United States.

If the review questions are taken, bring the class through the study of the Negro to consider: Among what other interesting people in the South does the Church work? If the class has no knowledge, sketch to them briefly the picture of the three million mountaineers who live in the Appalachian Mountains and are poor and backward because they have never had the guidance that would lead them forward. Dwell particularly on their bravery, loyalty and love of freedom shown in 1776, 1812, 1860 and 1898. They responded generously to the call of the nation, and willingly shed their blood for its perpetuation. Then announce that it is of these that we study in this lesson.

If the mountain geography is taken, ask: What confined the thirteen original states to the seacoast? (The mountains.) Were there earlier settlers in these mountains? (The first settlers were probably driven to the mountains for protection from the Indians. Later the poorer people of the South sought the mountains where in a cooler climate they could get a living without slaves and the labor required by the low lands.)

Follow this material by a brief description of the three million mountaineers as outlined in preceding paragraph.

I.

A TEN-MINUTE LESSON ONCE A MONTH

Having approached the subject by using some of the material suggested in the points of contact, state that before we complete our journey to the missions on this side of the world we should see the mountaineer in his beautiful mountains, and visit some of the work that the Church is doing among them.

Produce Picture No. 1 and explain the poverty of their lives: small homes, poorly built, large families with no books to read and little to occupy the attention and create ambition. Emphasize the large number of boys and girls growing up. Show Picture No. 2. What can these become if left to themselves? Ask the class the question: What do you think the Church should do for these boys and girls? Draw from the class as many lines of activity as possible: Industrial schools to make them better farmers and carpenters, common schools to teach them to read and write, Sunday-schools to lead them to a knowledge of the Church life.

We are sending some clergymen among these people, but not as many as we should. These few clergymen have to work very hard. Sketch, if there is time, the incident in the life of a priest on and after New Year's Day. Show Picture No. 3 and explain how in many places there are no churches, but on the hillside the priest sets up his altar and administers to the people.

In sections where the Church has been, great results have come. Picture No. 4. Here is a Sunday-school. How different the atmosphere from that in the first picture! Shall we not try to help these people to have some of the blessings that we prize so highly?

II.

TEN-MINUTE LESSONS EACH SUNDAY

In order to adapt the material in the article to a brief lesson each Sunday, the following four divisions should be studied, and one division taken with the class each Sunday after the regular lesson. As the lessons for the four Sundays are all on one subject, care must be taken to co-ordinate the divisions. This may be done by asking connecting questions, such as: What mission work are we studying this month? Introduce the first division, the point of contact and all other divisions by review questions.

THE OUTLINE

1. The Southern Mountaineer, Past and Present

What is known about the early mountain settlers of the South?

What have they done for the United States?

If you should meet one how would he impress you?

How do they live?

What kind of a school system have they?

What is their idea of religion?

In teaching this section use Pictures Nos. 1 and 2. Make the class see that a simple life in the open may lead some to be true and loyal, but does not always stimulate ambition. There must be some contact with the large world and great deeds if there is to be vision and ambition.

Promise for next week an account of how the Church is trying to help these people.

2. The Mountaineer and the Church.

Name some of the ways in which the Church helps the mountaineer?

What appeal would you make to urge a mountaineer to be confirmed and come to Holy Communion?

Describe a home where the Church has entered.

What work should the Church do?

Pictures Nos. 3 and 4 will be helpful in this section. This is a good opportunity to make the class see the value of the offices of the Church in mission work. If the people need industrial schools they need also the spiritual nourishment of the Church.

Promise that next Sunday the class will make a journey over the mountains and to the homes of these people.

3. A Priest's Life in the Mountains

Give a description of New Year's Day and the days following in one priest's life.

This hour can be made most interesting if it is assigned to a scholar and he tells the story as one who accompanied the priest.

Promise next week a visit to one of the schools.

4. The Patterson School

Describe a visit to the Patterson School.

Suppose you were a scholar in this school; tell the class all you can about your life: What you are there for. What you learn. What it costs and how you pay. What you think is the chief value of the school.

In concluding the lesson make such an appeal as is within the capacity of the class.

III.

A FORTY-MINUTE LESSON ONCE A MONTH

With a whole Sunday-school period at his disposal, the teacher should use all the material given in the above section. "A Ten-Minute Lesson Each Sunday." The method of the treatment of the four sections would be changed; instead of the teacher doing most of the talking, the sections should be given out to four members of the class as assignments. Each should be provided with a copy of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS, and the outline of the particular section assigned to him.

The lesson should open with the review and point of contact questions as have been suggested above. The scholars reporting on assignments should be assisted by the teacher asking such questions as would start the thought of the class and bring about discussion.

All pictures should be mounted in the class note-book with such other pictures as the members of the class bring in.

PROMISE OF NEXT LESSON

The next lesson will describe what the Church is doing in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia.

The material for this lesson will be provided in the August SPIRIT OF MISSIONS.

Lesson XI.

AN AGRICULTURAL INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

IN a fine old house, standing amid broad acres and filled to overflowing with its thirty boys and their teachers, the Church in the district of Asheville is conducting "An Industrial and Agricultural School for White Boys."

The Patterson School, as it is called, is the result of the wise generosity of the late Hon. S. L. Patterson, Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of North Carolina, and of his widow, the late Mary S. Patterson, both of whom left the property to the Board of Trustees of the Missionary District of Asheville as the site for this school. This property comprises about 1,350 acres of land, 300 acres of which are cleared and in cultivation, a large dwelling and the usual outbuildings. It is located in the beautiful Yadkin Valley, Caldwell county, North Carolina.

The object of the school is: First: To give to poor boys, fourteen years of age and upwards, the very best schooling; second: To afford them the opportunity of paying their own way completely. The school is equipped to prepare boys either for a direct return to the farm upon graduation, or for entrance into any college or technical school.

The cost of each boy to the school per annum is $100; $60 of which covers his tuition and $40 his board. Every boy entering the school is required to pay for his board in labor, which he does by working three hours every school day. The tuition may be paid either in cash or labor, the boy working on the school farm during the summer vacation. Money for clothing and incidentals may also be earned by crediting boys for extra work done. The Patterson School thus takes its place as the only secondary school in the United States wherein any poor boy may actually pay his own way completely.

The Agricultural Department comprises instruction in theory in the classroom, practical instruction by experiments and work in the field, and such other work for the boys as must necessarily be done on any farm. Definite instruction is given by the school agriculturist in soils, their structure and treatment, fertilizers, the care of orchards, principles underlying the preparation of the ground for various crops and their subsequent cultivation, how to judge live stock and how to care for it, and the numerous other matters connected with farming which the up-to-date farmer must know, including a practical system of farm bookkeeping.

One of the most disintegrating influences in the South to-day is the tendency of the mills to draw all of the small farmers from the hills to the unsanitary cotton-mill villages, and to put young and old alike into the mill rooms. And so the soil, after having been robbed of its strength, is now being robbed of the people who, even though inefficiently, were tilling it. The significance of the Patterson School and its idea lies in the fact that it—and schools on the same plan that inevitably will follow it—must act as an opposing force to this movement toward the mills and factories, because it will give the young men the general education that they need and equip them to cultivate the soil properly, not wastefully, as their ancestors tilled it.

A SOMEWHAT notable achievement, and one which testifies to the desire of self-help in the mission field, is found in the fact that the Cathedral parish in Havana has during the past year, by personal subscriptions and without any use of the usual money-raising devices, paid off the floating debt of $2,850. Three years ago this debt was between six and seven thousand dollars, all of which has been met in addition to the running expenses.

MEETING OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

June 13, 1911

THE Executive Committee met in the Church Missions House on the morning of June 13th, eight of the thirteen members being present.

The treasurer gave the cheering announcement that the offerings up to June 1st still show a very considerable increase—some $70,000 over last year—the bulk of this having come from parish and individual contributions. One hundred and twenty thousand dollars had been returned to the Reserve Deposits, leaving a balance of $210,000 still to be returned. It is hoped that the increased gifts to the Church may make it possible to reduce this amount substantially before September 1st.

The Diocese of Maryland, through its bishop, notified the committee that, beginning September 1st, 1911, it would relinquish the grant of $1,300 which has been made to it for Negro work. The committee passed the following resolution:

Resolved: That on behalf of the Board the Executive Committee most heartily thanks the Bishop of Maryland and his diocese for relinquishing the appropriation for work among the Negroes, commending this to the Church as an inspiring example of diocesan self-help.

This amount will be placed elsewhere in the prosecution of the work among the Negroes.

A conspicuous feature of the meeting was the large number of appointments made. Some of these were partly completed at the May meeting of the Board, while others were new. They were as follows: To Alaska, Miss Mabel V. Holgate and Miss Laura M. Parmelee as workers in the Tanana Valley Mission; to Mexico, Miss Mercedes Gore; to Cuba, Miss Marion N. Chapman and Miss Frances C. White; to Tokyo, the Rev. S. H. Nichols; to Kyoto, Miss S. T. Rees; to The Philippines, Miss Cornelia K. Browne; to Shanghai, the Rev. John G. Magee, the Rev. E. R. Dyer and Mr. William F. Borrmann; to Hankow, Mr. G. L. Pennock, the Rev. C. F. Howe, and Miss N. O. Ludlow; to Wuhu, Mr. T. R. Ludlow. The Bishop of Cuba was also empowered to employ the Rev. Mr. Winter in the field.

In all, sixteen persons are being sent into nine different fields. This is indicative of the response which the American Church is making to the call for the gift of lives. It is incumbent upon those of us who cannot make that gift to see that those who have made it are adequately equipped and effectively supported in their work. This can only be done by increased gifts and multiplied prayers on behalf of those who represent the Church in her mission work.

ANNOUNCEMENTS CONCERNING THE MISSIONARIES Alaska

The Rev. Charles E. Betticher, Jr., returning after furlough, left his home at Haverford, Pa., on June 24th for Seattle, en route to the Tanana Valley Mission.

Miss Margaretta S. Grider, who was appointed on April 20th, left Chicago June 25th, en route to Nenana.

Miss Mabel V. Holgate and Miss Laura M. Parmelee, who were appointed by the Executive Committee on June 13th, left Chicago June 25th, en route to Chena and Nenana.

The Rev. Frederic W. Goodman, who is going to take charge of the work at Point Hope during the absence on furlough of the Rev. A. R. Hoare, left New York on June 21st, expecting to sail from Seattle by the steamer "Victoria" on July 2d.

Brazil

Mrs. Kinsolving and daughter Lucie sail from New York by the steamer "Byron" on July 3d, to Rio Grande do Sul.

Cuba

At the request of Bishop Knight Miss Marion Norton Chapman, of St. Paul, Minn., was appointed on June 13th as a missionary in his district. She was graduated from the Church Training and Deaconess House, Philadelphia, on May 30th.

Hankow

At the meeting on June 13th, at the request of Bishop Roots, the Executive Committee approved the appointment of Miss Nellie Ogden Ludlow, of Christ Church, Bloomfield, N. J.

The Rev. A. S. Cooper, who sailed from San Francisco on April 26th, arrived at Shanghai on May 20th and left for Hankow on the 22d.

The Rev. and Mrs. Percy R. Stockman having been obliged, for family reasons, to return to the United States, sailed from Shanghai the latter part of April via Europe, and expect to arrive in New York the first week in July.

Kyoto

In accordance with the request of Bishop Partridge Miss Sarah T. Rees, of Hartford, Conn., was appointed on June 13th; the appointment taking effect from the date of her graduation from the New York Training-school for Deaconesses, May 16th.

Mexico

At the request of Bishop Aves, the appointment of Miss Mercedes Gore was approved by the Executive Committee on June 13th, to take effect from the date of her graduation from the Church Training and Deaconess House, Philadelphia, on May 30th—the day she was set apart as a deaconess.

Shanghai

The Rev. Y. Y. Tsu, of the Shanghai District, was ordained to the priesthood in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York, on Trinity Sunday, June 11th.

The Philippines

The resignation of the Rev. Murray Bartlett as Dean of the Cathedral at Manila became effective on June 1st. He has accepted the Presidency of the University of The Philippines.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee on June 13th, Miss Cornelia K. Browne, of Roxbury, Mass., was appointed at the request of Bishop Brent.

Miss Blanche E. L. Massé, who was appointed on January 10th, sailed from Hoboken by the steamer "Grosser Kurfurst" on June 15th. She is to sail from Naples to Hong Kong by the steamer "Prinz Ludwig," July 3d.

The Rev. and Mrs. George C. Bartter, who sailed from Hong Kong by the steamer "Empress of India" April 29th, arrived at Vancouver May 20th, and reached New York June 3d.

Mrs. Robb White, Jr., because of illness, has been obliged to return to the United States. With her two children she sailed from Hong Kong by the steamer "Empress of Japan" on May 20th; arrived at Vancouver on June 10th and proceeded to Tarboro, N. C.

Miss Margaret Routledge, deaconess, who sailed from San Francisco March 21st, arrived at Manila on April 15th.

Tokyo

The Rev. Shirley Hall Nichols, of St. James's Parish, Upper Montclair, N. J., was appointed by the Executive Committee on June 13th.

At the same meeting, upon the request of Bishop McKim, the Rev. William H. Smart, who has been employed in the field for several years, was given a six months' leave of absence with the understanding that, at the expiration of the term, he will retire from the Tokyo Mission without pension.

The Rev. W. F. Madeley, on regular furlough, with his family, sailed from Yokohama on May 13th.

The Rev. J. Armistead Welbourn, on regular furlough, is to leave Tokyo July 1st, for England via Siberia. He expects to sail for New York from Antwerp on September 30th.

Wuhu

The Rev. Edmund J. Lee, on special leave of absence, sailed from Shanghai by the steamer "Empress of Japan" on May 23d, arrived at Vancouver June 10th and reached New York on the 16th.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

To the Board of Missions

THE CHURCH TRAINING-SCHOOL FOR MISSION WOMEN, SENDAI

By Elizabeth G. Newbold

[Deaconess Ranson, the Principal, was absent on furlough, lengthened on account of her health, from June, 1909, to February, 1911, and during the greater part of this time Miss Newbold was in charge. She sends us the following account of this interregnum and of the return of Miss Ranson.]

DURING Deaconess Ranson's prolonged absence Mr. Cooke and Mr. Inagaki were invaluable in keeping things going, teaching many of the classes; then Miss Babcock came over from Fukushima three days every week during the spring term, to teach, and as she has had a great deal of experience in evangelistic work in the country, and can speak the language very well, and understands the hearts of the Japanese girls, she was an untold help and valuable ally. However, the strain of keeping up the evangelistic work in Fukushima and giving three days a week to the school was too much, and in July she broke down. By September she was quite well, but then the Bishop sent her to live with me, so she was my companion and housemate for the six months from then to April, 1911, Miss Fyock being in Tokyo during that time, studying the language.

At the last spring term, that is, in April, 1910, we had the full quota of girls, sixteen, and such dear girls, so bright and eager with such a beautiful spirit, and so responsive. It has been a real pleasure to teach them. With so many girls there were a good many questions to be settled, in reference to routine, etc., but the most important that confronted us was what to do to give them practical experience in mission work. This was brought to our attention by the graduates of 1910 saying, when they were told their fields of work and that there was already work waiting for them in the way of Sunday-school teaching, preparing women for Baptism, visiting out-stations and holding meetings, "But, Sensei, what are we to do? How do we do it? What shall we teach?"

Here was indeed a difficulty. Our students had been taught the truths about the Bible, the Christian faith, Church history, singing and sewing, and now, How were they to apply what they had learned? They had been in school all their lives and knew nothing of practical life and its problems. Fortunately, we were able to talk all this over with the Bishop, and it was decided that we should try the experiment of sending them out to help in the country stations during part of their summer vacation. In this way we felt they could learn something of their own future task by watching how the older Bible-women worked. It seemed the only solution of the problem, and yet we decided on this course with some fear and trembling, for up till then the students had had their entire summer vacation of two months free, during which time they were supported by the mission, and so we feared there might be some dissatisfaction. However, they all took the announcement in a beautiful spirit, and, indeed, seemed delighted over the prospect, and could hardly wait to hear where they were to go. This made us all feel somewhat easier in our minds, and yet I, for one, confess that I waited with some anxiety and uneasiness to see how they would feel in the fall, after the summer's experience. So when they all came trooping back in September, and gathered around with beaming faces and most enthusiastic accounts of their summer, I was very happy. Only one had a rather discontented, disappointed-looking face, so I asked her what was the matter. "Oh, Sensei," she said, "there wasn't any work to do where I was" (the priest was away on furlough and there was no one in charge to direct), and she said it as if it were the greatest trial anybody had ever had to endure. So don't you agree with me, that if our Christians here go out to the work with that spirit, God's banners will go marching on?

WHAT THE DEACONESS FOUND ON HER RETURN

By Anna L. Ranson, Deaconess

I FOUND the school here in a flourishing condition, under the skilful management of Miss Newbold. She had a hard position, coming here after so short a time in the country, and with all the teaching to be done in Japanese. She did it splendidly, and all I had to do was to pick up the broken ends of my work again and to carry things on as they had been begun in the new building. There are sixteen students in the school, as many as we think it best to have at one time, or can take care of after they graduate. I am very glad to say that we have many applications now for entrance into the school, so that we can choose and take only those that seem most desirable.

The new buildings are very delightful and the girls are immensely proud of them. Miss Fyock has over forty children in the kindergarten, so that with the work going on in the teachers' house, the Training-school and the kindergarten, this is a busy compound.

Have you any pamphlet giving a history of the Auxiliary from the beginning up to the present time? The girls in the school ought to know all about it, and, in fact, were told to write a paper on the subject last term, but we had not just the whole history ourselves and so no material to give them to work from. If there is a pamphlet will you not kindly send two or three copies?

We are planning this summer to have a conference for the woman workers of the mission, in the school buildings. If successful, we hope to make it a yearly thing. The workers off in the country stations especially feel the need of getting together occasionally, and talking things over and hearing addresses on subjects of common interest, and most of all feel the need of spiritual uplift and a wider vision.

I am sure our friends would be pleased to find how fine is the spirit and enthusiasm of the later graduates of the school, especially since the rule was changed which required a certain amount of service in return for education received at St. Margaret's. There is not a student in the school now, who is not here of free choice, and because she loves the school and the subsequent work, and the whole atmosphere is entirely changed. It is a pleasure to teach these eager, industrious young women, and especially to see the change which comes over those who at first seemed least promising. To me it is one of the miracles which our Lord said should follow faith in His Name, the change which takes place in the characters of those who try to teach and to lead in this land.

CHRISTMAS TIDINGS IN MIDSUMMER

FROM OUR GIRLS' SCHOOL ON ST. PAUL'S RIVER, BROMLEY, WEST AFRICA

By Elisabeth M. Moort, Principal

IT is a long time since we received our Christmas boxes, but many things have delayed the acknowledgment of them. The chief reason has been illness, for I have had so much fever that I feared I should be obliged to give up my work here, though with more regret than I can express. There have been many discouraging features about the work, but lack of help has affected me most. We now have seventy-eight girls enrolled and only one teacher, beside the pupil teacher, in the building. As this teacher is a man, you can see that he can give little or no assistance about the house. Mrs. Lomax, who taught for some years in the mission at Cape Mount, is with us sometimes, but as she now has home cares, we are frequently without her help. I often wish I could become three women instead of one, for the work's sake. We have two matrons who are doing excellently, and I feel quite encouraged, though they have been with us not a month yet. We have a very large building to care for, and the girls do all the work. Someone has to keep busy in order that our schedule of daily duties may be faithfully carried out. When one is in good health, the work is delightful. I enjoy it very much.

Our aim is to give the girls some knowledge of the Bible and Prayer Book and to implant in their hearts an ambition to dedicate their lives to the elevation and Christianization of their own people. In the industrial department, the cooking, laundry and housework are done under the supervision of the matrons. I think our friends would like to see what clean, thoroughly-scrubbed floors and stairs we have. The long halls, dormitories, dining-hall, school-room, and occasionally the chapel, come in for a good cleaning at the proper time. The girls are learning to take pride in keeping the dormitories, with the long rows of beds, in neat order, and woe to the girl who dares sit down on another girl's bed! In the economic department the cooking is carefully done under the supervision of the assistant matron. The girls are changed in the different departments fortnightly, the larger girls only having the work of cooking. There are huge pots of rice, fish, cassava, or sweet potatoes to be cooked. Frequently beans, with pork or salt beef, are prepared. Palm butter, a native dish, and much liked here, is made like a thick soup, of palm nuts, and eaten with rice, fish or fowl, or some kind of meat is cooked with it. Biscuit or fruit, such as pineapples, oranges or bananas, is given the girls for their lunch. Friday nights the girls who are learning to make bread, set the yeast, and on Saturday they turn out some very good loaves which are much enjoyed on Sunday. There is, naturally, some good-natured competition over this task, which is likely to insure success in that line of cooking.

The rising bell, at half-past five, calls into activity girls of all sizes. After bedside prayers, baths (in the lavatory recently erected), dressing, etc., all the girls except those engaged in domestic duty spend thirty minutes in the school-room at their lessons, with the monitress at the desk. At seven o'clock the big bell rings for chapel, which all attend except cooks. After chapel the girls stand in rows in the school-rooms, for inspection of dress, hair, teeth and nails. At eight o'clock the girls march across the long veranda to the dining-hall for breakfast. Grace is said or sung, and the girls sit down at six long tables. The tables are covered with white oil-cloth, and are set with white agate plates, cups and dishes, and present quite a pleasant sight. Six girls have the care of the dining-room, which is a very large room. At nine o'clock the bells ring for school, and the teachers and pupils are very busy until five minutes before twelve, when the big bell is rung for noon-day prayers. At half-past twelve lunch is served, and from one to two there is another hour in school, for the primary classes. The larger girls are employed at various tasks in the afternoon, laundry work, sewing, fancy work, etc. Dinner is served at half-past four. The girls are required to make themselves tidy and fresh for this meal. Various duties are performed after dinner, but there is generally a little time for games and other sports, and all relax until the bell rings for Evensong. Quite a line of little girls are dismissed for bed directly after prayers. There are twenty minutes then, which I spend in talks on hygiene, morals and manners. At seven o'clock a bell is rung for study period, when the girls prepare their lessons for the next day's recitation under the supervision of the teacher. At twenty minutes to nine the retiring bell is rung, and at nine o'clock the lights are out. Now at half-past nine, as I write, the only sounds I hear are from without, and belong to the tropical night—the insects, birds and animals. The strange cry of the sloth draws nearer and nearer, and when they cry it is said that leopards are near.

The scholastic work is elementary in character, but very interesting. Intellect is not wanting among our girls, but it is to be regretted that educational advantages have been kept from them so long. There is no doubt of the success of our work here. The people are learning, however slowly, that "Time makes ancient good uncouth" and that they, too, "must ever on and upward" to "keep abreast the truth." The parents and guardians are learning to appreciate the advantages given in such an institution as ours, and the trend is toward higher things. My girls will never be satisfied to live the narrow lives of their parents. Their minds are broadening as they respond to the teaching given, and we may expect to see the development of true Christian character and womanliness among them. I am sure our friends abroad would be delighted with a visit to our school and to see what they are making possible with their gifts of money and goods.

It is my custom to spend the spare time from teaching and other necessary duties in cutting out and sewing garments for the girls. Even with that I cannot keep up with the demand. A few of the girls can sew a little. If we had a sewing-teacher, the girls would soon learn to cut and make their own clothing and help with other work. They are very anxious to learn, but I cannot take the time to teach them. I do not know how to thank you for the generous supply of clothing which has been sent us. It greatly relieved my mind and lightened my burden. It seemed as if the girls had been measured and the clothing made accordingly.

Christmas was happily spent, though a great many of the girls were absent for a few days with parents and friends. Those remaining had a pleasant time. Christmas morning the Communion was celebrated and a short sermon was preached, from the familiar text, "God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son," by the Rev. Professor Smith from Caldwell. The rest of the day, being Sunday, passed quietly. Next day, after the distribution of gifts in the school-room, the girls played to their heart's content. I gave myself up to them, and enjoyed playing as much as they. There was a grand display of dolls and a doll parade in which the young mothers took much pride. Then there was a tea-party, during which time the dolls looked on complacently from their positions on the table. They were arranged in a long row and viewed with delight by their owners while they ate nuts, candies and biscuits. The beauty and style of dress were freely discussed and improvements suggested. After the tea drinking was over, the rubber balls were in evidence, and I have enjoyed nothing so much since my play days as that game with the balls. Afterwards I sat on the porch resting, and the little girls gathered about me again with their dolls. I took one of the Chinese dolls and told them a story which I recently read about a little Chinese girl, to which they listened with great interest. The books, pictures, and other gifts gave great pleasure, and some of the girls are writing letters of thanks to the kind friends who sent them.

A PRACTICAL CONTINUATION OF THE JUBILEE

THE Committee on the United Study of Missions, with whom the Jubilee plan originated, are proposing a general Continuation Committee. This committee is similar to the Laymen's Forward Movement among the men, contemplating among the women speedy and great advance in active membership, intelligent interest and systematic gifts in every separate woman's missionary organization, through the combined effort of the Christian women throughout the land.

The Auxiliary has been asked to share in this onward movement, and to cooperate as it may have opportunity. It is hoped the members will take part in formulating plans and working them out through, or in connection with, the Auxiliary branches. These plans will include an increase of the subscription list of THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS, a multiplication of study classes, an extensive adoption of house to house visitation, where this can be done as a recognized part of the diocesan and parochial plan.

It is one more channel, in fact, presented to the women of the Auxiliary through which to reach out to a larger service, rekindling enthusiasm and stimulating endeavor, while strengthening faith and deepening loyalty and making more real the privilege the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions enjoys in being a helper in carrying out the purposes of the authorities of the Church.

JUBILEE ECHOES

In a New York country parish was held a small Jubilee. The Woman's Auxiliary officers arranged the programme, which consisted of a series of five-minute papers, closing with hymns and prayers. All the women's missionary societies in three contiguous villages were represented. The rector of the parish in which the meeting was held presided, and there was a very earnest gathering of about two hundred women. At the close it was suggested, and very generally concurred in, that a joint meeting of missionary societies be held on some future occasion, to consider the various phases of mission work.

A GOOD EXAMPLE: WHO WILL FOLLOW IT TO-DAY?

*From a Paper Prepared for this and other Jubilee Meetings
by Miss Cornelia F. Crary, of the New York Branch*

LET us look into the years that are past, and see the picture of a great woman, a missionary and a teacher. The field upon which we look is China, and the figure of the woman who captivates our gaze is that of Miss Lydia Fay.

A native of Virginia, Miss Fay was appointed teacher in our Mission School at Shanghai, and sailed for China, November 8, 1850, reaching her destination in March, 1851. She went to China with a fixed purpose and to that one all-absorbing vision she devoted her every effort, her prayers, her consecration. She desired to see, as the fruit of her labors, one Chinese who should be an ambassador to his people, to tell them the story of God's love. The day after her arrival she was placed in charge of a school of twenty boys, whom she was to instruct in English. She worked untiringly, and built up the school with such efficiency, that after some years its importance and usefulness so increased that the buildings were enlarged, and a theological department was added.

Though fifty years of age when she went to China, Miss Fay became so proficient in the language, that when Dr. S. Wells Williams was revising his dictionary of the Chinese language, he entrusted to her the task of correcting the Shanghai pronunciation. Her personality was so winning and her influence in the community of such importance, that foreigners visiting China called upon her as a most proper courtesy. She spent twenty-eight years of missionary service among the Chinese people, working always toward the cherished desire of her heart, and finally laid down her life in the fulness of her years, having been privileged to see the satisfaction of her great desire. Not only one but ten of her own boys of the school received Ordination, going forth to tell to their Chinese brethren the story of the Gospel which Miss Fay so loved to teach; and from the school over which she presided for so many years has developed the present St. John's University at Shanghai, with its departments of Arts and Science, of Medicine and Theology—training a constant succession of youths in Christian manhood and usefulness. Rich harvest of her seed-sowing!

An American merchant in Shanghai, who knew Miss Fay intimately for many years, has said: "She was one of the truest and best and most efficient missionaries that ever lived, and her praise, as such, should be in all the Churches. Her life was also a daily testimony to those about her of the beauty and happiness of self-sacrificing duty. . . . In the annals of missionary work, her faithful devotion to the heathen will have a lasting place; and great generals and admirals and eminent travellers have recorded their opinion of the wonderful 'Boys' School' of years ago; but who is to reckon the number of fellow residents whom she helped, and cheered and comforted!"

I have given this example from multitudes of like instances of heroic, self-sacrificing, missionary service, which by many people, in many climes, has prepared the way of the Lord. Now, as never before, are the fields white unto the harvest: Crowds are flocking eagerly to hear the tidings of salvation; in China, many more are coming to the missions than the working force can teach.

It is estimated by one of long years' experience, Dr. Pott, the president of St. John's University at Shanghai, that if converts to Christianity should continue to come to the various missions at the present rate, in thirty-five years there would be 100,000,000 Chinese Christians, about a quarter of the population.

But the laborers are few. From every portion of the field comes the same appeal. For means to sustain and advance the work? Yes, that in abundance; but stronger than that is the need for more workers, consecrating time, talent, wisdom, life itself, to the telling of the Gospel story.

The message of to-day is a call to service. Our offering is to be a loving tribute from women who treasure the Christ as their Lord, and earnestly desire to send to all the world the glorious tidings of His Love.

There is an ancient prayer which reads, "Let the light of Thy Gospel shine upon all nations; and may as many as receive it, live as becomes it." So only can its power be attested, the mighty spiritual force which brings about the miracle of holiness in daily human living, and links it to the Divine.

The call is clear to us to the knowledge of what the story is which we, as Christians, are pledged to have a share in sending forth; to a realization with thankfulness of the Christian fellowship, and service and love and privilege which are ours for the using, the very atmosphere in which we live and move and have our being; to a sense of our responsibility toward the sending of the Gospel to all nations as our birthright of Christian heritage.

Where is the measure of our responsibility? Can we measure the depth and length and breadth and height of the Love of the Heavenly Father, when He sent forth His Beloved Son to redeem all mankind? Can we give less than ourselves, in all the fulness of our capacities, for Him to use as He will? Glad to go with His message if His call comes to us; glad to abide at home, if so His will shall be, and do our part in constant interest, earnest prayers, and loving gifts?

There is a picture of the Christ as a Child, standing with outstretched Arms, prefiguring in His Body, the Cross of man's redemption. And underneath is written:

"So wide is My love."

Shall we not, each one, join ourselves to the great host who publish the tidings, and have our share in the high privilege of sending the knowledge of that All-embracing Love to the ends of the earth, realizing in our work the meaning of the glorious missionary hymn:

"From utmost East to utmost West,
Where'er man's foot hath trod,
By the mouth of many messengers
Goes forth the voice of God:
Give ear to Me, ye continents—
Ye isles, give ear to Me,
That the earth may be filled with the glory of God,
As the waters cover the sea."

"All we can do is nothing worth,
Unless God blesses the deed,
Vainly we hope for the harvest,
Till God gives life to the seed;
Yet nearer and nearer draws the time,
The time that shall surely be,
When the earth shall be filled with the
glory of God,

The question asked in May, "What has been the best feature of the Junior work during the last year?" and repeated in the June number, has brought one answer. A leader in the diocese of Erie writes: "Now, in answer to your question in this month's SPIRIT OF MISSIONS, I believe the best thing in my Juniors this year is the way I have gotten them to read the Bible every day. I tell them I do not bind them to any stated amount, but it is just to get them into the habit of reading and handling their Bibles. If they have read the Bible every day, they get a star on the chart the day we meet, and I am surprised myself the way it has worked out, and how interested they all are to get their stars. One girl was away for three weeks, and when she came home she proudly put three stars opposite her name. I hope I may lead them to mild study instead of only reading. There is no prize offered, only they get a little gold star on the chart."

The following account of work in a branch of small children comes from the Atlanta diocese, and is suggestive.

"I started with twelve members, and when we disbanded for the summer I had twenty-five on the roll, with an average of nineteen at each meeting. I had ten boys, and as they were very enthusiastic members I was proud of them. The ages of my little folks ran from four years to thirteen. There were six under seven years, and it was sometimes rather hard to make the meetings interesting for the very little tots. I found it a good plan to have something to keep the little hands busy, while I talked to them about missions. I made cards for them to work, getting cardboard and cutting it into the size I needed. I put different designs on it, punching holes with a large pin. They made anchors, triangles, crosses, circles, little Chinamen, etc., working them with colored silk. On some they painted the design with water gilt, and at Easter the older children put Easter greetings on them and sold them, making money for their boxes. We got the Perry and Brown pictures, and they pasted them on cards and I put a few together with ribbon, with a calendar on the bottom, which made quite attractive things for sale. I took the pictures of the children, and printed a number of them for them to sell.

"I took up the study of the work in China, and the children made a number of charts of the work. I got them sheets of cardboard, and they cut out all the pictures I could get of the work being done by our missionaries there and pasted them on the boards, and we put a map of China, which one of the children had drawn, on one. Then we hung them up so we could refer to them any time we wanted to. I used the 'Uplift of China,' 'The American Episcopal Church in China,' 'The Overcoming of the Dragon,' and different books on the customs and religions of China which I got from the library, besides the stories in THE SPIRIT OF MISSIONS. I find with little folks the best way to interest them is by bringing out the point of contrast. To teach them of the life of the little folks of China was most easily done by contrasting it with their own. The difference in their homes, food, games, schools, and the customs of the country, as compared to ours, interested them greatly."

"We conducted our meetings in a thoroughly business-like way. After our opening prayers the president called the meeting to order and took charge. My secretary was one of the little boys and wasn't he proud of the wonderful minutes he wrote! They made motions and did everything themselves, which of course made them quite happy."

ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF OFFERINGS

Offerings are asked to sustain missions in thirty missionary districts in the United States, Africa, China, Japan, Brazil, Mexico and Cuba; also work in the Haitien Church; in forty-two dioceses, including missions to the Indians and to the Colored People; to pay the salaries of thirty-two bishops, and stipends to 2,253 missionary workers, domestic and foreign; also two general missionaries to the Swedes and two missionaries among deaf-mutes in the Middle West and the South; and to support schools, hospitals and orphanages.

With all remittances the name of the Diocese and Parish should be given. Remittances, when practicable, should be by Check or Draft, and should always be made payable to the order of George Gordon King, Treasurer, and sent to him, Church Missions House, 281 Fourth Avenue, New York.

Remittances in Bank Notes are not safe unless sent in Registered Letters.

The Treasurer of the Board of Missions acknowledges the receipt of the following from May 1st to June 1st, 1911.

* Lenten and Easter Offering from the Sunday-school Auxiliary.

NOTE.—The items in the following pages marked "Sp." are Specials which do not aid the Board in meeting its appropriations. In the heading for each Diocese the total marked "Ap." is the amount which does aid the Board of Missions in meeting its appropriations. Wherever the abbreviation "Wo. Aux." precedes the amount, the offering is through a branch of the Woman's Auxiliary.
